ANOTHER DISH OF SCANDAL

Mix' Version of the Beecher-Tilton Business—Plots to Ruin Beecher

New York, June 2.—The long promised chapter in the Beecher-Tilton case appears this morning over the signature of James B. Mix, something of which a review was foreshadowed in New York dispatches of 21 May. Mix opens by declaring his purpose to give a true statement of what he believes to be the origin, progress and denouement of the gigantic and elaborate plot conceived by a league of free love propagandists, having for their object the rule or ruin of Beecher. The story begins early in 1870 when Tilton, Moulton and Mix were all neighbors in Brooklyn Heights. Himself and Tilton were schoolboy friends and grew up together. Tilton at a very early age developed an inordinate and impure fondness for female society in such marked degree as excited ridicule despite his scholarly aptitude which challenged general admiration. In 1873 two coteries of social reformers attracted attention. Both had a convention favoring women's rights, one meeting at Steinway's and the other at Apollo Hall. Beecher was at the former, which included such women as Grace Greenwood and Lucretia Mott. Tilton presided over the other, which included Victoria Woodhull and was denounced for free love theories. At the same time a conspiracy was organized to secure Beecher as high priest of the free love movement or else so compromise him as to compel his co-operation. The originators of the plot, Mix says, were Tilton and three women unnamed because he proposes to give no woman's name unless she has already been before the public as implicated with Tilton. Mix proceeds to narrate the proceedings of the free love coterie. The butt of all the women in it was Elizabeth Tilton.

In the presence of certain of them whose edict was law she gave up all claim to her husband, and when she remained all night at Tilton's house, which she frequently did, Elizabeth abandoned her own character and smothered her sobs on the bosom of her poor blind aunt who slept in the basement. It was at the time of these doings that the Apollo hall convention was held, and soon afterwards the plot against Beecher was organized. A combination of circumstances originally let Mix into the hatching house and brought him into frequent contact with the parties interested. He charges that Tilton's intimacy with Victoria Woodhull was formed for the purpose of using her as one of his instruments against Beecher. About the 1st of May 1871 Mix was sent by the Tribune office to obtain from Woodhull a file of her Weekly. On that occasion, after waiting half an hour or more he met Tilton emerging from her private room. This was long prior to the date of his intimacy with Woodhull testified at the Beecher trial. The acquaintance between Woodhull and Tilton thus began was long continued and resulted in his knowledge of many facts having important bearing. The use made to Woodhull's advantage of the files borrowed by him drew out her explanation showing that Tilton had already become so intimate as to be received in her boudoir. He narrates various incidents to show that it continued despite Woodhull's declaration that another literary woman and reformer, with whom Mix had seen him at Long Branch, was his affinity, and despite Tilton's wife's indignant refusal, during that summer of 1871, to accompany himself and Woodhull in a drive. For a long time Tilton and Woodhull were inseparable, sometimes at night as well as day. To prove inferentially that Tilton himself was the author of the card published in the Times and World in May, 1871 over Woodhull's name and which first insinuated the charge against Beecher, Mix quotes from a published interview with Woodhull after her return from California in 1874, and charges distinctly that Tilton was himself the first to befoul his wife's name. In April 1872 Tilton realized that he had been fooled by Woodhull. Tilton had selected her as one of his instruments for striking Beecher. To some extent he succeeded in that, but otherwise his advances failed.

THE WRECK IN THE STRAITS

London, June 2.—Two of the men rescued died from exhaustion on board the Preussen. An eye witness of the disaster says the Preussen did not lower any boats and that nobody was visible in the water half an hour after the Grosser Kurfurst foundered. The Koenig Wilhelm, which is the flagship carrying Rear Admiral Batsch, and the Preussen are expected at Portsmouth to-morrow morning.

London, June 1.—A steamer just returned from the scene of the disaster reports that the Koenig Wilhelm was able to proceed down the channel, probably for Portsmouth. The Preussen remains on the spot. Nothing is to be seen of the Grosser Kurfurst.

The captain of a fishing boat makes the following statement: My boat, with other fishing vessels, was returning to Folkestone when we noticed three ironclads coming down. A bark was fetching off shore. The Grosser Kurfurst ported her helm to clear the bark; the Koenig Wilhelm pulled hard a port and struck the Grosser Kurfurst forward of mizzenmast; the Kurfurst went over on her beam side and sank in five minutes; she went in fifteen fathoms; all hands jumped overboard; our boats reached the spot directly afterwards and rescued 27 men, including three officers; other boats rescued a number of the crew, all of whom were transferred to the Koenig Wilhelm. Captain Bratsch of Grosser Kurfurst went down with his ship. The boilers did not explode, but the escaping steam must have scalded many persons in the water. The Koenig Wilhelm had her bows stove but the leak was stopped with hammocks. The collision was undoubtedly caused by the Koenig Wilhelm porting her helm too suddenly. Mr Smith, first lord of the admiralty, in his statement in the house of commons to-day confirms the report that the collision occurred while the Grosser Kurfurst was endeavoring to avoid a merchantman. He said a dock was preparing at Portsmouth for the reception of the Koenig Wilhelm. She is now proceeding thither.

It is extremely difficult to obtain exact information about the sinking of the Grosser Kurfurst. Survivors were taken on board other ironclads and nobody from either of the three vessels has landed at Folkestone or Dover. All the morning papers give different estimates of the number lost and saved. The Telegraph reports 167 saved out of a crew of 520. The confusion and conflict of statements yesterday were so great that the first boat which came ashore at Folkestone reports that the foundered vessel was the British ironclad Warrior. An eye witness says that the Grosser Kurfurst was leading the squadron and that the Koenig Wilhelm was following and struck the Grosser Kurfurst in the effort to wear ship to avoid a merchantman. Twenty three of the Kurfurst's officers were saved. The Preussen was some distance astern at the time of the disaster and did not come up in time to assist in the rescue.

The latest statement is that [illegible] captain previously reported lost.

Saved from the Kurfurst

[illegible] have since died from exhaustion.

Movement of Austrian Troops

London, June 1.—A dispatch from Vienna says Austria intends to concentrate troops on the river Save.

THE IDAHO INDIAN WAR!

Statement from a Correspondent in the Field

Fort [illegible], June [illegible].—Mr. [illegible] of the Statesman, who left here on Friday with Major [illegible], sends the following concerning the Indian outbreak and the movements of the troops:

At the Corners we learn that [illegible] Jim and several Indians who had been encamped at that place had left suddenly upon hearing that the troops were coming. Col. Bernard [illegible] passed the Corners at daybreak [illegible] Dixie station on the [illegible] Friday evening. The Indians under Capt. Boise Jim were a part of the command with the purpose [illegible] the prairie of the approach of the troops. Everywhere along the stage road the Indians were seen to leave suddenly, and along the trails they traveled [illegible]. Col. Bernard was advised not to go into Camas Prairie with his present force, as the Indians are reported to be in strong force and determined to fight. It is evident that the force under Major [illegible], which is about 70 men, is too small to offer battle to the Indians. All that can be done will be to watch the Indians until reinforcements can come forward. Twenty armed men from Rocky Bar with Sheriff Campbell joined Col. Bernard Saturday morning and went with him to Camas Prairie.

Another Lava-Bed War.

The distance from Boise City by trail to Big Camas Prairie is [illegible] miles, by the wagon road [illegible] miles. The point in the lava beds occupied by the Indians is at the head of Clover creek and about [illegible] miles from King Hill station on the overland road. These lava beds are parallel with Camas Prairie and are estimated to be full 50 to 60 miles in length. It is here the Indians are camped, with ample room for natural defenses, plenty of wood, water and grass, and where they will be able to stay all summer unless a large force is brought against them. From their natural fortresses they can sally out upon the settlements and make the roads impassable and the country uninhabitable.

The Pretended Grievance

The pretended grievance of the Indians is that the Big Camas Prairie which they have visited every summer from time immemorial is being occupied by whites with their herds of horses, cattle and hogs, which trample and root out the camas, destroying one of their main resources of food; but the fact is they have been preparing to go on the war path since last summer and have chosen this locality for the base of their operations.

Chief Joseph Rewarded for his Bravery

There is a rumor current among the Bannocks to the effect that Chief Joseph is living in a splendid furnished mansion with servants, horses, fine clothes and every luxury that heart can wish. This good fortune they think has come to Joseph as a reward for his bravery in last summer's campaign, and they are ambitious of imitating his example with hopes of a like reward.

The Wounded Men

The wounded man Geo. Nesby was taken to Rattlesnake from Porter's. His case is thought to be hopeless. Tu Kensler received a glancing shot on the head which tore the scalp but inflicted no serious wound. The ball which struck his head glanced and struck his horse which was near. The noble steed though mortally wounded carried both men ten miles where one of them procured another horse, the other wounded man riding the horse the remaining ten miles to Dixie station. After reaching the station the horse died.

Number of Indians

It is estimated that there are 300 Indians in the lava beds.

Boise City Arming—Mass Meeting of Citizens

Boise City, June 2.—The city is well armed. A mass meeting of the citizens of this city has just been held at the court house to devise means to render assistance to the settlers along the overland road. The meeting was well attended, Chief Justice Hollister and all the leading citizens being present. Several speeches were made and the conduct of Governor Brayman condemned in the strongest terms. Fifty men enrolled themselves to go to the relief of the settlers, but with the express understanding they would be subject to no orders from the governor of Idaho.

Stage Station Robbed.

Bannock warriors on Friday last robbed King Hill stage station on the overland road 7[illegible] miles from Boise City, and drove off the stage stock, 5 horses. The hostler, Mr Packard, saw the Indians coming and escaped to the hills.

Further Depredations

After getting all they wanted at King Hill the Indians crossed Snake river at Glenn's Ferry and captured two large freight teams on the other side. One of the teams was loaded with groceries and provisions for D. Levi of this city. The other team had a considerable amount of powder, revolvers and cartridges for Coffin & Kenneally, hardware merchants, and Buffalo Horn and his warriors took this ammunition without an executive order. The Indians loaded their horses from the freight wagons and cut the ferry boat loose. The teamsters have not been heard from since, and it is not known whether they are killed or not. There are a great many teams on the road and the Indians can get all the provisions they want. Two hundred volunteers could be easily raised here if the people were willing to recognize the man who draws a salary as governor of Idaho.

WADE HAMPTON

REOPENING OF THE ELECTORAL QUESTION DEPRECATED BY GOV. HAMPTON

[Columbia S. C. Special May 13.]

A correspondent waited on Gov. Hampton this morning and called his attention to the news of the adoption of the Potter resolution in congress on yesterday. After some general conversation the correspondent asked him what he thought of the wisdom of any attempt to unseat Hayes. Gov. Hampton in reply said: "I think that any attempt to unseat Hayes would be most unwise unless it had been previously made perfectly clear that he was a party to the system of fraud which made him president. I do not believe he is or has been implicated in such fraud." Gov. Hampton spoke with much feeling, and expressed his surprise at the result of the five days contest in the house just ended. He further said that the reopening of the presidential question at this juncture is fraught with danger to the whole country. He said: "It will in my judgment react disastrously upon the Democratic party, and it will injure especially the South, which needs peace, and I should regard it as a grave mistake on the part of our people to take any part in this matter." In reply to the question whether an attempt to unseat Hayes would be looked upon favorably in South Carolina and the South, Gov. Hampton gave it as his opinion that the masses throughout the whole country will look upon it as a revolutionary proceeding, and a conviction of this sort, he said, will do more to make Grant president in 1880 than every other agency combined. Throughout the interview Gov. Hampton spoke with much feeling, confirming the belief that he is more patriot than politician.

Still Looking for that Third Party.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

A considerable number of persons are engaged in arranging the next presidency. It is of course a personal matter. The people at large are to have very little to say about it. The usual course is to be pursued. Candidates are being provided. They are not to be strangers. We are assured that Mr. Ulysses S. Grant and General Samuel J. Tilden are to be the champions. Grant is to represent law and order; Tilden economy and reform. Grant is in training in Europe by those who think we need a MacMahon to save society. Tilden is being advertised by the American congress. The most [illegible] that Grant is to be the Republican [illegible] are Democrats, and the most anxious supporters of Tilden as the Democratic candidate are Republicans. If the Democrats should succeed in nominating Grant [illegible] the Republicans [illegible] Tilden [illegible] Democrats [illegible] perhaps the time would prove propitious for the organization of that third party of which we have heard so much and [illegible].

Unadulterated Republicanism the Strongest

[From the Burlington Hawkeye.]

[illegible] There is only one course to pursue, and that is the one in which Iowa leads the van.

THE POTTER COMMITTEE.

Various Matters Developed, Among them a Letter Alleged to have been Written by John Sherman Unearthed

Washington, June 1.—Secretary Sherman [illegible] the following reply to Chairman [illegible] letter [illegible] yesterday:

Treasury Department,
Washington, June 1, 1878.

[illegible] I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday [illegible] the [illegible] of which you are chairman [illegible]. My [illegible] will not permit me to be present at the meetings, but I avail myself of [illegible] Shellabarger [illegible]. Very respectfully, JOHN SHERMAN.

Potter's Committee in Session

Washington, June 1.—The Potter investigating committee met to-day, all the members present. Potter announced as a sub committee to visit Florida Hunton, Springer and Hiscock.

James E. Anderson of Philadelphia, previously supervisor of registration of East Feliciana parish, La., was the first witness called, and Representative MacMahon began the examination. After giving a detailed statement as to the duties of supervisor of registration, Anderson said he had seen the document known as the "Sherman protest," and that it had been altered, not being the same as when signed by him. In reply to a question as to the alterations witness said there were two or three additional paragraphs in the document and that it was filled in in several places. Several documents were read giving detailed statements of the manner in which his (Anderson's) life was endangered regarding intimidation, etc., in his parish. He was of the opinion that because he would not carry out the plans of Governor Kellogg and others they were desirous of having him out of the parish. While in New Orleans he heard that John Sherman was in the city desirous to see Don Weber and himself. Thereupon they called at the St. Charles Hotel to see Sherman, but did not find him there, but later found him at Moreau's restaurant, Canal street. Weber advanced, addressing Sherman. The latter remarked: "Gentlemen, I am glad to see you." Continuing speaking, he said: "Gentlemen, I want to say, as I understand there is some difficulty in your respective parishes. This is a time when the assistance of every Republican and true patriot is needed, and I trust you will stand by us." Weber remarked that in endeavoring to do their duty they incurred the displeasure of Packard and Kellogg, and were compelled to leave their respective parishes, and in the event of Packard's election as governor they would get nothing from the administration. Whereupon they were assured by Sherman that they would be cared for, as Hayes would control the federal patronage. All he desired of them was that they stand firm and let the record run along as it is. After the lapse of a short time Weber and Anderson concluded to forward a letter to Sherman informing him they were not satisfied with their conversation with him as regards being taken care of, and requesting that he inform them in writing as to whom they should look for the fulfillment of his promises. Hiscock, Butler and Cox of the committee objected to reading of what was claimed by witness to be a copy of a reply to their letter to Sherman, taking the ground that Sherman should first see the document, and if he recognized it as a copy of his reply, then and not until then should it be admitted in evidence. In an interview with Gov. Kellogg he was asked how his (Anderson's) parish was going. He replied that it would give about fifteen hundred Democratic majority. Gov. Kellogg said that it would never do, and suggested that Anderson rally the colored voters of two polls and carry them and let the remainder of the polls go Democratic, remarking further that witness then get up a disturbance and in consequence thereof throw the Democratic votes out. A document was produced purporting to be an affidavit which had been signed by witness and Don. A. Weber, supervisor of West Feliciana parish, wherein those gentlemen refused to sign a protest against the result of their parishes. They knew that large Democratic gains had been obtained by legitimate means. The original of this affidavit witness said was recently in possession of Stanley Matthews.

Judge Shellabarger, counsel for Sherman, said in reply to a question that he had no knowledge of Sherman ever having written such a letter.

Butler offered a resolution which was adopted, providing that the paper identified be received but not read until Secretary Sherman be called before the committee and have opportunity to see it, whereupon Chairman Potter notified Sherman of the action of the committee.

A letter was produced, signed by witness, addressed to Weber, saying that Packard was raising hell because of their refusal to protest against returns in their respective parishes.

Recess.

After recess Secretary Sherman appeared, and the letter which was claimed by Anderson to be a reply to his letter was shown to the secretary, who said:

Mr. Chairman: I believe that I never wrote such letter. If I have written it it must have been when the returning officers convened to count the returns, and I do not believe I ever wrote this letter. At the same time there are things in this letter I would have written to these or any other men engaged in such occupation. But I don't believe I wrote the letter.

The vote was taken on the question of having the letter read, and it resulted affirmatively. It is in substance as follows:

Your note of even date just received. Neither Mr. Hayes, myself nor other gentlemen with me shall forget the obligations under which you will have placed us if you can stand firm in the position you are taking. From a long conversation with Mr. Hayes I am justified in assuring you that you will be provided for as soon after the 4th of March as possible, and in case you are compelled to leave the state that will not materially interfere.

A Touching Mule Story.

[From the Elko (Nevada) Post.]

A car load of mules en route to California from the far east were unloaded here last Wednesday for a rest. One of them sighted the green sagebrush and rushed hungrily toward it for a luscious feed. He nipped off a mouthful of the fragrant bush, chewed it a moment, spit it out, bit himself and kicked to see if he was dreaming, took another bite, and then with quivering lip and the tears coursing in torrents down his cheeks he lifted up his voice and brayed a bray of undisguised emotion. A peculiar brand upon the animal was recognized by the Indians as one used by their ancestors hundreds of years ago, and his deep emotion was no doubt caused by unexpectedly finding himself once more amid the scenes wherein he had whiled away the joyous, innocent hours of his childhood.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA

Rushing in the Voters

San Francisco, June 1.—At the registration office there is a rush to get on the lists, most of the applicants being of the working class. There is evidently a determined effort being made on the part of a great many men to get their names placed on the list. Many professing to be naturalized citizens are making application to have their names placed upon the register who cannot tell when, where or by what court they were naturalized. Others came with first naturalization papers only, claiming to have been registered on them at last election and demanding to be listed. These applicants are frequently very surly and impudent to the registration clerks on being questioned. Register Kaplan is doing all he can to preserve the purity of the registration, but there seems little doubt that by false affidavits and other dodges many will get on the lists who have no business there.

Balloon Accident

San Francisco, June 2.—Prof. Martin, accompanied by a reporter, made an ascent in the balloon Hercules from Woodward's Gardens this afternoon. The aeronauts narrowly escaped with their lives. The balloon drifted out seaward about fifteen miles, but finally struck a western air current and came down between San Bruno and Millbrae. The balloon was destroyed in making a landing. The aeronauts were thrown out, falling about [illegible]0 feet. Both were severely bruised, but escaped without dangerous injuries. They arrived in town about 9 P. M.

Experiments with coal oil lamps for street lighting are proceeding so far with small results.

The Gold of the World.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

The bulk of gold in the world steadily increases, though the amount is roughly approximated. Ten years ago it was estimated at about $5,500,000,000 in value. It must be greatly larger now, though we have no fixed data for approximating the amount. But it may be of interest to show what the bulk of the smaller sum ten years ago would be if it were all melted and run together. Pure gold is more than nineteen times as heavy as water, and a cubic foot of water weighs 1,000 ounces avoirdupois. A cubic foot of gold would weigh therefore 19,000 ounces avoirdupois, and every such ounce of fine gold is worth (according to our coinage) somewhat more than eighteen dollars—so that the whole cubic foot of gold would be worth a little more than a third of a million dollars. A cubic yard of solid gold would be worth twenty seven times as much as that, or over nine million dollars, and 600 cubic yards would contain somewhat more than the $5,500,000,000 of gold in the world ten years ago. These 600 cubic yards would be contained within a room about fifteen feet high, twenty four feet wide and forty eight feet long, say a good sized parlor or a store of moderate size. But, says some one, gold is so very malleable that even this small bulk of it would gild over the whole earth. But he either overestimates the malleability of gold, or, more likely, underestimates the size of the earth. It takes 1,280,000 leaves of the thinest gold foil to make an inch in thickness, or about 15,335,000 to make a foot, or 46,000,000 to a yard. A cubic yard of gold then could be beaten out so as to cover 46,000,000 square yards, somewhat less than 10,000 acres, for there are 4,840 square yards to the acre. Then as there are 640 acres to the square mile, the whole 600 cubic yards of gold could be beaten out so as to cover about 10,000 square miles, that is, a tract only 100 miles square—less than the extent of Vermont and a little more than a fifth of either New York or Pennsylvania.

Two Things Necessary.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Two things are absolutely necessary if civilized society in this country is not to be disordered for many years by communism. The first is that the public must stand ready to crush every revolt against law swiftly, thoroughly, mercilessly. The law breaking communist must meet no more toleration than a mad dog. Next there must be a public opinion which will stamp out any political party or leader who affiliates with or courts the spirit of communism. Civilized society must learn to hold as public enemies every organization, political or trade, and every public man or official in any degree leaning toward communism. It must be treated as we treat cholera or smallpox, or its work will be far more deadly.

Scheme to Cheapen Money.

[Recent Washington Telegram.]

The several schemes to abolish the circulation feature of the national bank system, repeal the ten per cent tax on state bond issue of notes and permit the states to re-establish the old wildcat state bank systems, have strong followings, but it is scarcely possible that the conflicting views as to details can be so harmonized at present as to give legislative success to either of them at present. The south in congress is solid for anything that will cheapen money. The south and part of the west would combine to substitute greenbacks for all national bank issues, but it is seen elsewhere that this means illimitable greenback issues.

MONDAY MORNING JUNE 3 1878

ELECTION TO-DAY

The general argument in regard to the election is closed. To-day there will be far more irregularity in the voting than on any former occasion in the history of our state. Relaxation of party discipline is manifest in both the principal political organizations. In many places the greenback movement so called will draw a considerable vote. In Multnomah the workingmen's organization will throw a vote which is likely to disturb calculations that may be based on figures shown by former elections. Over and above all these things is the general disposition to "scratch," which will probably prove the greatest of the unknown quantities in determination of this contest. Yet we see no reason to doubt the correctness of the opinion expressed through these columns some time ago, namely that there is a Republican majority in the state and that the Republican state ticket will be successful. But there is likely to be an appreciable difference in the vote on candidates on the same ticket, and this probably will apply to both parties. Local disputes will somewhat affect the legislative tickets in most of the counties and it is not unlikely that these matters, superadded to the contest over the senatorial question, may decide the political character of that body. There should have been no question as to a Republican majority in the legislature and that matter would not be at all doubtful had there been no effort to set up nominations with a view to the election of senator and to force upon the people a legislative assembly packed in the interest of a class of well known politicians. As to the result in Multnomah it is useless for any person to indulge in conjectures or anticipations. We are well satisfied that a majority of the business and working classes are favorable to the independent ticket, but it is well known there is a heavy voting population of another sort which is largely the reliance of the politicians who manage the Mitchell organization. The contest ends to-day, and though THE OREGONIAN has pursued it with energy it has done so without bitterness or any kind of offensive personality. On the railroad question, which has been the main thing discussed in connection with the election, it has endeavored to give reasons for the views it has presented, and those reasons will be the same and as good after election as before it. The great point THE OREGONIAN makes is that it wants such legislation as will build a railroad, and realizing the magnitude of the work and the vast sums of money indispensable to its success, it maintains that the interests of the country require that the aid solicited be not curtailed, but that congress be allowed to bestow on the undertaking all it is willing or likely to give. California, in order to obtain a railroad, asked and received enormous aid from the government. Instead of being content with a land grant and trying to limit the value of that, it added a request for a great subsidy of bonds and obtained it. Our dependence for a road is solely on a land grant, and the fact that it is not good judgment to reduce that grant and encumber it, thus making construction of the road difficult and slow, and perhaps doubtful or impossible, we shall maintain as true policy after election as we have done before the event. Should the senate bill be passed by the house without amendment it is not the bill which the country wants, because it will not afford the necessary aid for the work. We only ask the candid observer to take note of this and mark the result. The subject is now dismissed to await further developments.

VIGILANCE

In this city at present there is a large number of men not entitled to vote. Left alone few of them would be likely to offer a ballot, but plied by political workers with various kinds of inducements, it may be expected that many of them will be brought up to the polls. Beware of illegal voting and its penalties. It will also be necessary for each voter to examine his own ticket closely, so as to avoid imposition. Great numbers of tickets will be offered purporting to be what they are not. In order to be sure that his ballot contains the names of the persons for whom he would vote, each voter must scrutinize every name. Without such scrutiny there will be great danger of voting tickets in which names have been inserted which the voter would not expect to find in such company. Amid such a multitude of tickets, each containing a great number of names, the only security is close inspection in each case.

Certain politicians here who for the purposes of this election have seen fit during the past several months to make attacks on the O. S. N. Co., have printed and distributed a list of the names of 180 persons said to be in the employ of the company, who are alleged to have no right to vote in this election. None but legal voters should vote or offer to vote, and it is easy to apply the tests provided by law. But numbers of names on the list are pointed out to us as those of persons who have lived in Multnomah county from one to six years each. True they have been laborers and earning their wages, but perhaps they ought not to be disfranchised for that reason any more than the long list of persons who ha[illegible] the offices, and now assume to say who shall vote in the county and who shall not. Be fair and just to all, and let no man vote unless he is lawfully entitled to do so.

It is strange indeed that congress does not act promptly to change the law so as to bring to nought the devices of country postmasters who sell large amounts of stamps in the cities at less than their full value, thus giving merchants an inducement to aid in the process of increasing the commissions which the government pays. It was long ago made clear that the government is robbed of a large amount every year by this illicit practice, and Postmaster James, the Tribune says, has now collected figures tending to show the extent to which the sales of the New York post office alone are diminished. The estimated value of stamps cancelled in a year [illegible] nearly $4,000,000; the actual sales [illegible] year were little less than $2,000,000.

The discontented classes at the east now complain that the silver bill has not improved their condition in any way and that money is as scarce as ever. These people have a peculiar notion of the laws of currency. They suppose that money is kept from the hands of those who earn nothing because there is not enough to go around. Let the mints coin an abundance of short weight dollars or the government presses run off no end of paper promises to pay them, they believe there will be such a currency pressure that a portion will be injected into every household in the land. They do not understand that money only flows where there is exchange to require its presence. No man gets money unless he has something to give for it.

If that letter attributed to Sherman, said to have been furnished the investigating committee by Anderson, a Louisiana registration officer, be a genuine letter it will annoy the administration not a little. Sherman makes a sort of qualified denial, but as it is such a letter as an anxious politician would have been very likely to write under the circumstances of that time its authenticity may well be believed. It is a letter which will serve just now to give a sort of new zest to an old scandal. The committee of investigation will proclaim its triumph and pursue the hunt with new energy. It is campaign capital that is wanted now.

There was an announcement some time since which intimated that the Ohio legislature had adjourned without gerrymandering the state. But this is a mistake. Gerrymander was pushed through. The state is so divided that the Democrats expect to carry fourteen congressional districts with a smaller aggregate majority than the Republicans will have in the other six districts. Democrats attempt to justify by claiming that it is only the rule of eight to seven with the boot on the other leg.

There is a loud call upon congress from all parts of the country and from representatives of all shades of politics to provide some adequate safeguard against the recurrence of the grave complications surrounding the last presidential election. We are rapidly drifting on towards another election with the same or a worse danger in prospect, and so far there has been no definite action on a subject that is of vital importance, really transcending every other that has engaged the attention of congress.

The strategy of the Democrats in pursuing the cry of fraud in connection with Louisiana and Florida is simply to get up a stunning campaign document. It will be the burden of all their politics during the summer and fall and they hope to clean the next house of representatives upon it.

The father of John H. Smith, nominated for minister to Liberia, was formerly a slave in Richmond, but his mother was a free woman and purchased her husband's freedom for $1,000. The new minister studied law at the Howard university in Washington and subsequently practiced his profession in North Carolina.

Gen. Shields lived for a dozen years in Missouri in comparative obscurity but awoke one fine morning and found himself famous, and he now occupies a prominent position as a candidate for the United States senate. Good luck always followed him in other states and it may yet make him senator from Missouri.

Many Republicans and many Democrats will to-day vote a common ticket for members of the legislature and county officers. But they will vote their respective state tickets largely according to their political preferences.

There is no probability that Jacobs wrote that dispatch himself. He is too lazy even for that. He only signed his name, or more probably still, he merely drawled assent when another proposed to write his name for him.

When a ticket is put in your hands examine it closely. Look at every name. Only thus can one be sure that he is not voting for some one whom he would not knowingly support.

Should the independent ticket receive the general support of Democrats to-day it will be elected throughout, for hundreds of Republicans will vote it.

We request friends to send in election returns from all parts as quickly as possible.

A CARD

MY CARD PUBLISHED IN THE OREGONIAN of the 1st inst. having caused some comment and discussion, I find it more convenient to answer the numerous enquiries put to me concerning it by a further card. On my dissolution of copartnership with B. F. Vestal in the butchering business in 18[illegible] we entered into a written agreement by which I was to receive among other considerations for the good will etc. of the business from J. Corbett $[illegible], from T. H. Foss $[illegible] [illegible] debts then due the firm of Reid & Vestal. These amounts in the natural course of business were transmitted by the parties to Mr. Vestal who continued the business and were by him appropriated to his own use in violation of our written agreement, and he retains these sums belonging to me to-day.

Mr. Vestal since his becoming a candidate has made offers to compromise this misappropriation of funds by offering me his promissory note at six months. But I prefer that the public should know the man they are asked to vote for for sheriff to compromising.

If necessary I can explain further in the next issue. Mr. Vestal when he came into the business with me had not $100 and put no money in the business. I did not take the note he offered me last Thursday for the reason that I considered it worthless without an indorser. J. HILL

STEINWAY & SONS'

DOUBLE VICTORY

AT THE

Centennial Exhibition, Philadelphia, 1876.

Two Medals of Honor!

AND

Two Diplomas of Merit!

Being incontestably the highest honors bestowed upon any Piano exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition, no other Piano exhibit having received more than one medal or a similar extraordinary recognition by the jury, and only to the Steinway Pianos has been accorded

"The Highest Degree of Excellence in all their Styles."

By the unanimous verdict of the judges, as shown by the following official report on the STEINWAY EXHIBIT in the Main Building, viz:

The undersigned having examined the GRAND, SQUARE and UPRIGHT PIANOS exhibited by STEINWAY & SONS, respectfully recommend the same to the United States Centennial Commission for Award, for the following reasons, viz:

For greatest Concert Capacity in Grand Pianos, as also highest degree of Excellence in all their styles of Pianos, viz: Largest Volume, Purity and Duration of Tone, and extraordinary carrying capacity, with precision and durability of mechanism; also, novel disposition of the strings, and construction and bracing of the metal frame.

Signature of the Judge H. K. OLIVER

Approval of the Grand Judges

CITY.

PORTLAND SEAMEN'S FRIEND SOCIETY The meeting yesterday afternoon through the courtesy of Capt Penny was held on board the bark Dovenby The weather being favor able, quite a large audience collected on the wharves and on the deck of this beautiful vessel. The address by Chaplain Stubbs was on the words "Thy kingdom come Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven" These meetings seem to be of growing interest. Quite a number of ladies were present and added much to the interest of these services by their presence and help in singing.

THE AFRICAN M E CHURCH —Quite a good number of those accustomed to worship in the A M E church assembled for worship last evening, and after the sermon by Rev R S Stubbs, a speaking service was held with good interest This society is endeavoring to hold together, and are doing pretty well but greatly need a regular pastor Two weeks since, Gen Howard officiated much to their edification and pleasure They are a worthy people and have an important mission in our midst. All good people wish them success.

RAILROAD CONTRACT —Following the announcement of a combination of capitalists formed to push the construction of a narrow gauge system of railways to afford the wheat country of the upper Columbia means of transportation to navigation on the Columbia river, it is reported that J L Hallet the well known contractor, has secured a contract for construction, which will proceed immediate ly in anticipation of the arrival of thirty five miles of iron, due here in about six weeks

GOOD PROSPECTS.— A cotemporary says "We are informed that J. L Hallett the rail road builder, has been awarded a contract for the construction of a railroad in Eastern Oregon, and is now in town for the purpose of employing a number of men to work on the same. He constructed the Oregon & California and Northern Pacific railroads We are more than gratified at the prospects of better times for our laboring classes and the early opening of Eastern Oregon to the seaboard

LECTURE.—Mrs. Logan delivered a lecture at Good Templar hall yesterday at 2 o clock P.M. to a large audience Her subject was "Mesmerism and Clairvoyance" Mrs Logan says an exchange, "holds her audience with undivided attention, advancing many new practical truths, drawing tears to many eyes not only of the softer sex but from many hearts. Her purpose seems only to do good to soul and body."

CITY PROPERTY SOLD.—By order of the city council, that certain piece of land belonging to the city, situated on the south side of Yamhill street between First and Second (where the old house occupied by Vigilance Hook and Ladder Co. No 1 so long stood,) was sold at auction by Oscar Kilbourn last Saturday. The piece of land is 30 by 50 feet and was sold for $2,800. Mr G Frantz was the purchaser.

FESTIVAL.—A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held at the hotel building in Stephens's addition to East Portland, for the benefit of the Sunday school at that place, on Thursday evening next Admission 25 cents. Arrangements will be made to have the ferryboat run till a late hour so that persons may attend from this side without inconvenience.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—Last Saturday the regular monthly meeting of the teachers of the school district was held at the central school building. The meeting was well attended, about 40 teachers being present and was both interesting and profitable The subject of the new grade work in the schools constituted the principal theme of discussion

ONLY A CANDIDATE.—T. E Logan, Democratic Citizen's candidate for constable in East Portland precinct,—the fireman who was injured at the American Exchange fire —is still in the field. His friends are working for his election.

ARRESTED.—Yesterday Albert Caldwell and Jake Caldwell were arrested on a charge of larceny from a dwelling house. The defendants were held to appear each in the sum of $[illegible] and in default were committed to the county jail.

THE IDAHO.—The steamer Idaho left San Francisco for Portland last Friday with freight and passengers For some reason the passenger list was not telegraphed FUNERAL.—The funeral of the late Mrs [illegible] L. Hibbard took place last Saturday from the Taylor street M. E church The funeral was numerously attended.

PICNICS.

The picnic given yesterday at East Portland park was attended by hundreds, and was very successful in a financial sense, and enjoyable to all who attended. Dancing was kept up continuously and during the day a number of games were inaugurated which added greatly to the interest of the occasion.

The picnic given yesterday at Willamette Grove by [illegible] Lodges Nos. 1 and 2 was largely attended and was very successfully conducted During the day the steamers Gazelle and Calliope made trips between the city and grounds at brief intervals. Each boat carried up large numbers of excursionists at every trip. It is no exaggeration to say that at least 1,000 persons visited the grove during the day. There was music and dancing and a general good time experienced

The Trinity Sunday school excursion from Oregon City to the Cascades on the City of Salem will take place next Thursday, June 6th For the benefit of the excursionists she will touch at East Portland [illegible] and at Pacific dock foot of Salmon street, Portland, about 7:30, and remain 10 minutes. APPROVED AND ADOPTED

The following is a transcript from the proceedings of the Oregon State Grange in session at Salem last week

Resolved That this State Grange acknowledge the receipt of the communication of W S Plummer patentee and proprietor of the Plummer Fruit Dryer and that we deem the subject matter of the communication of such importance as to recommend it to the members of the order

Resolution adopted N W RANDALL Secretary

We learn that samples of fruit and models of his dryer were on exhibition at Salem during the session of the grange and that they attracted much attention from the members who approved the machine and recommended it to subordinate granges The Plummer Fruit Dryer is not an experiment but a known success

Railroad to Dallas a Certain Fact.

[From the Dallas Itemizer]

We take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of Polk county that the contract for the construction of the narrow gauge railroad to Dallas has been signed sealed and delivered to the committee—R S Crystal J D Lee and W C Brown The railroad company met at Dayton on the 24th inst and authorized the making of the contract, not only with our citizens binding the company to complete and put the road in operation to Dallas on or before the 1st day of October next but also authorized the letting of all the construction work And on the 29th the contract on behalf of the company was duly signed in Portland by the officers of the company The committee have also the agreement of the Pacific Rolling Mills Company of San Francisco, of which Wm Alvord president of the Bank of California is president and L B Benchly is general manager agreeing to furnish the railroad company all the iron and track fixtures for the extension of the road to Dallas whenever the subscription notes were turned over to Mr Gaston These notes amounting to more than was at first required have been delivered to Mr Gaston and the whole business is now settled and the 1st day of next October will welcome the iron horse and train of cars to the town of Dallas in old Polk

We congratulate the citizens of Dallas and of the whole county on this auspicious event For while it will not only settle the future of our beautiful town and give a great impetus to its prosperity it will build up the whole county and the next season we will see the narrow gauge cross our southern boundaries into Benton And having succeeded in this first big undertaking for Dallas we shall soon see manufacturing establishments spring up on every hand to utilize the great water power at this point In conclusion we congratulate the public spirited citizens who have worked this matter up and labored for its success not forgetting our courageous and large hearted citizen Mrs Lyle who when the matter seemed to hang in suspense, bravely came forward and offered to pledge her handsome and valuable estate adjoining town to secure the success of the road Such prompt action shows the lady fully able to act on the great business interests of the county and that she should have a vote on all questions and we now vote for her to be county commissioner or representative in the legislature

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY

GENERAL HOWARD'S ADDRESS IN PLACE OF THE BACCALAUREATE DELIVERED AT FOREST GROVE, JUNE 2D, 1878, TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF PACIFIC UNIVERSITY SUBJECT BELIEF

I —GREATNESS ENHANCED BY CHRISTIAN BELIEF

Ladies and Gentlemen No two people not even father and son are precisely alike

Frederick William the father had a rd long [illegible] vant his son Frederick and [illegible] after him self He was intensely angry and bitterly disappointed that he could not His anger and disappointment caused him to behave like a stubborn boy kicking at the door which shut him in his face narrows his limits and curbs his will He spends his anger upon the [illegible] cause of his chagrin Frederick the son [illegible] became a Frederick William well turned out to be in the judgment of mankind a hundred times the great man

Now as the elder Frederick accepted the full formula of Christian belief and Frederick the younger in his talk and writings departed from these formulas in various essential particulars let [illegible] spring to conclusions and declare it is better to have no creed than to have one a formula of faith is [illegible] than a [illegible] Of course this sort of reasoning is simply a travesty of logic a sophistry a mere sham as a moment's consideration enables one to demonstrate

For example Frederick William's misconduct derogations from a true manhood from true greatness [illegible] his family and his state were [illegible] in any respect whatever to his Christian belief but to his want of putting his Christian belief into a daily living practice Again the greatness of his son was in no degree traceable either directly or indirectly to his want of Christian belief but rather to his unflinching practice perhaps unconsciously to himself of the [illegible] brightest Christian virtues such as unfailing cheerfulness perennial fortitude and a hopefulness that combined enemies and prolonged adversity could not quench

II —TRUE BELIEF IN THE FACULTY [illegible] SHOWS

If my statements with regard to these two men whom I have chosen at random simply to illustrate a principle be correct then this inference would be a fairer one than the other viz That Christian belief in practice is the article The veriest tyrant —the jealous furious half mad father who succeeds in making his family and society the very epitome of perdition the man who delights in drunken orgies and visits with unrelenting hatred a companion because he will not join him in the ebriation one who in the fury of his passion would go so far as to strike heavy and wounding blows upon a delicate little daughter such a man with such a character may hold with tenacity to the full formula of Christian belief He did so and never was angrier than when his son failed to say his prayers in a clear loud and manly way like Daniel of old at the open window or by the bed side no matter who were present

In the life of the son there were many occasions when he would have been spared disgrace and the heaviest losses if he could have but added to his manly virtues a steady reliance upon a present and mighty helper Once in utter despair when enemies were coming in like a flood when defeat had been suffered in its worst form he ordered a favorite officer to surrender the capital of Saxony carrying him northward a for years and came near ending what is now called greatness by an ignominious self murder Just then he needed the super human strength such as God gave Elijah against Ahab or such as if he must die God gave to Stephen when his face shining like an angel full of divine compassion and love he entreated for his enemies Lord lay not this sin to their charge

If we only can see it if we only can receive it or perhaps better if we only can realize it in our minds and hearts Frederick William who certainly had in spite of his faults a sterling honesty and a square edged manhood, might have been truly a great man had there been added to him that impelling ability that inter or power which puts a Christian belief formulated or not well formulated into intense and ceaseless activity

Frederick (so called Frederick the Great) who was accustomed to use the small amount of faith that was in him was an intensely practical man would have been wonderfully greater, could his mind and heart have been filled up and rounded out by that principle which embraces all true philosophy—rejecting none of it—that principle which our Saviour projected into human life that living fire which when thoroughly in a man does not sap his energies does not diminish his talents does in no way detract from his manhood but does burn away the excesses in appetite and passion which like crackling thorns like the spreading cactus which in the pathway of his progress either wound his face or his feet or obstruct and lengthen his march to the consummation of his plans

III —CONSCIENCE AND HOLY SPIRIT INTIMATE UNION

We call it Christian belief eternal life living faith and by other names It seems to be somehow a mixture of the human and divine inside of us a sort of solution in God s chemistry of conscience and holy spirit which when fully incorporated the one with the other frees the human will from a thousand tyrannies, and makes it grandly free to act in the broad and boundless space about it

IV —REAL FREEDOM

How the soul —I mean the soul —all there is of a man within him leaps with joy when he first realizes that the tyranny of habit the slavery of appetite the impelling force of unrestrained passion the cowardly enslavement of the fear of man—these and other such have been effectually beaten back and the fact becomes plain simple and beautiful that Almighty God in His glorious limitless vastness is working within him and with him to will and to do of His good pleasure

Does not a man so endued become like an eagle buoyed up and borne on the wings of the wind yet strong enough to direct his upward and steady courses Is he not like the grandest ship at sea able even in the blackest storm to move on with unbroken masts and well set sails without material hindrance to the port of destination

Let us not forget it Greatness is greater when helped of God The completeness of a true formula of Christian belief lies in the completeness of Christian execution

V —HOW GOD ELEVATES COMMON PEOPLE INTO PRINCES

But however self-deceiving the vanity of youth may make one to be still somehow the young person says to himself I am not great I fear that there is no true greatness in me? I am hopeful with reference to the future but I look out on the vast arena of the world and behold the ground strewn with the wrecks of machinery planned as well perhaps as any I can plan I notice the shores of life s ocean covered with fragments and broken pieces of timber which belonged to vessels as staunch and strong as any I can construct Shall I then gird myself and spring forth into the arena of life weak and common as I am? Shall I construct my bark and launch it forth upon the boundless ocean of life s trials with no better sails and no better compass than those which have been destroyed?

I answer Outside of the realm where the King of Kings rules I see little but blackness and darkness occasionally a light here and there like such as some man of immense wealth carries in his hand but soon this light s fitful so uncertain at its best disappears the bearer has lost all his power in the darkness of the grave His light the light which he bore has in some cases indeed increased its brilliancy for a time among his numerous heirs at law but its lightings up are like the spangles of the rocket now bright now gone forever—the darkness is greater because of the quenched light It takes but a short experience in this world to learn the lesson that great wealth as a general rule is only an apparent blessing It injures the man It injures his children and seldom descends with a blessing to his posterity

You ask Dare I then, in my conscious weakness begin the construction of any vessel dare I make any attempt to embark on the ocean of trial? Again I answer Outside the limits of God s ocean one may expect even where there is occasionally the smoothest water the shallowest opportunities, the rocks and crags and chasms are ever at hand and eventually there is no possible safety and escape from them But how glad we may be that God s arena is vast and God s ocean is boundless

VI —EVEN THE WEAKEST DIGNIFIED AND CROWNED WITH STRENGTH

One little principle little like the compass compared with the immense ship which it governs is made known to us in our Christian belief and no where else It is enunciated by the eloquent apostle in this curious paradox When I am weak then am I strong And again it is impregnated in this expression I will glory in my infirmities If we could but see it it is more forcibly put in a Scripture motto that we often find illuminating the walls of our city churches Christ is all and in all English it Christ in a man that is Christ s spirit in a man makes a weak man strong makes the very weaknesses and foibles inherent in a common man become the mellowness and sweetness of ripe fruitage in his life

VII — GOD S INSTRUMENTS THE ALL IN ALL

Is it not almost beyond the power of human imagination to reach that our Heavenly Father who possesses a living tenderness more boundless than the circumambient air should so express himself —so embody himself as to give to humanity a Christ and so send Himself down the ages that the Christ spirit may dwell in every human bosom with such absorbing power as to be virtually all Who has the all? By the fruit only can you tell the nature of the tree The one has the all who possesses not only the essential Christian belief in the intellect but has this Christian spirit in the heart so that perforce he or she who possesses this all must keep the commandments in spirit as in letter or keep trying to do so must visit the sick and the afflicted must raise up the fallen must make exhibit of honesty and lofty principle and correspondent action as really as naturally as you please as living lungs do breathe and living feet do walk

VIII —A MAN WITH [illegible] CREED AS [illegible]

It is a fashion of to day to cry No creed [illegible] creed Translated it means no belief Were it possible [illegible] this wonderful accomplishment of no belief it would be like a preference of [illegible] of idiocy to brain—of imbecility to manhood—of nothing to something

A man with [illegible] creed [illegible] man with [illegible] purpose and the purposeless man [illegible] upon the mean sophistry

IX —BELIEF [illegible] AND WHAT [illegible]

[illegible]

X —[illegible] LIKE [illegible]

The reader of belief [illegible] like the manakin which the [illegible] and [illegible] showing to your delighted eyes the [illegible] muscles sinews and nerves But let God put a soul into a better manakin better than the artist can construct and explain you may then look again and cry ecce homo behold the man so the dry formula of a creed, if there is only a core, [illegible] ing that it be God s creed and not a man s when it shall have the soul in it, the Christ in it, stands forth in its completeness and you may indeed cry out concerning it Here is Life Eternal Life For surely the man is completed who has in him this living force Is it not true of him that he that believeth that is has in him a living active energy the all powerful principle drawn from believing in the Son of God hath everlasting life Yes in belief a good creed in the brain and in the life will make a godlike man

XI —[illegible] REMARKS TO THE CLASS

My young friends I am not a clergyman In no clerical sense have I a right to occupy a pulpit so that I may claim a little different relationship to you at this turning point in your experience From your own plane of common life work as brother to brother as friend to friend I speak to you But you are [illegible] to emerge into the world [illegible] There are many flags flying such as learning, wealth success in life etc etc [illegible] They may be well enough in themselves but set them not before you as your standard as the end of your purpose as the object of your existence but make God—and reaching after your highest possible conception of Him—make God your standard If you do your success your real success in time plus eternity is assured beyond a possible doubt And remember that you can learn more and more about Him from studying Him as revealed to you in His works as revealed to you in the hearts of His people but more especially as revealed to you in that best highest possible human expression of Himself in Christ Jesus our Lord

HAYES AND HIS PARTY

WHAT THE PASSAGE OF THE POTTER RESOLUTION HAS ACCOMPLISHED

Charles Nordhoff to the New York Herald

What the resolution has already accomplished is this It has united the Republicans and brought them and the president together on better terms than have existed since he was inaugurated The quarrels on the Republican side have ceased and the president has given evidence in several appointments as well as abstaining from certain removals that he intends hereafter to submit himself to the advice of the party leaders He is known to have said to a friend within a week that he found it impossible to carry out his ideas that it was necessary for him to co operate with his party and to satisfy the party demands that he had gone as far as prudence warranted and that the opposition to some of his ideas has proved to be too strong to be resisted It has also been noticed that for ten days past all the president's nominations have been at once favoring reported and confirmed by the Republicans with no delays or obstruction on their side That is to say the Democrats have succeeded in forcing Mr Hayes and his party into accord, so far as to the mere partisan gains or losses As to the interests of the country these have undoubtedly been injured by the Democratic movement Whatever promise there was of wholesome and reformatory legislation at this session is no longer to be hoped for Mr Wood's tariff bill will go over there is little or no hope of an amendment correcting the manner of electing a president There will be no further efforts to permanently improve the civil service

Chicago Markets.

CHICAGO, June 1—Another heavy break in grain occurred this week Wheat was a good speculating market with pretty wide fluctuations and a tendency to go lower evident during each day In cash there was a great break it going down from $1 06 to 97c in one day and showing clearly that a well developed corner was there Heavy receipts and high consols have wrought their perfect work here, and although the options have not broken down so completely as cash there was a strong pressure to sell in all divisions of the trade June wheat sold from 94¼ to 99c the lowest prices being reached to day

Corn showed the effects of the immense receipts and went down to the bottom figures The daily average of corn receipts has been over a half million bushels the past week Sales of June at 34¾@36⅝c

Oats were dull, but the lowest prices yet reached characterized the week's work June sold at 22⅛@23⅛c

Rye for cash sold at 50½@52c easier at the close Barley 46@47½c, firm to day

Pork recovered about a dollar from the low ebb of last week and although prices dropped again towards the close the course of the market indicated that all faith in the product has not fled June sold at $7 97@8 62½.

Lard did not share in the buoyancy of pork but on the contrary went still lower and closed to day at inside rates Sales of June at $6 38@6 67½

Alcohol was rather dull with $33@34 bid for lots delivered in New York firming up at the close

High wines were nearly nominal few sales reported and still fewer genuine transactions. The prevailing figure being $1 04

Receipts for the week Wheat 579 000 corn 2 403,000, oats, 603 000 Shipments Wheat, 504 001, corn 2,477,000, oats 720 000

Receipts same time last year Wheat 36 000 corn 1,257,000 oats 351,000 Shipments Wheat 8.0 000, corn 923,000 oats, 224 000 Aggregate movement this week over 9 000,000 bushels including flour

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.
His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
Chronic and Difficult Diseases.
He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

DR. BRENAN has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs includ ng Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This accounts in part for this great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

DR. BRENAN will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make Be sure and ask for DR.
